Note # 1 - SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Description of Business

J.M. Lummis Securities, Inc., incorporated on June 19, 1997, is a broker dealer of corporate bonds and U.S. treasury and government agencies' securities.

Concentration of Credit Risk

Financial instruments which potentially expose the Company to concentrations of credit risk, as defined by Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 105, consist primarily of accounts receivable. The company's customer base is located throughout the United States. Although the company is directly affected by the well being of the banking industry, management does not believe significant credit risk exists.

In addition, the Company places its cash with high quality institutions. At times such investments may be in excess of the FDIC insurance limit; however, management does not believe this credit risk is significant.

Accounts Receivable

The Company provides an allowance for doubtful accounts, as needed, that is based upon a review of outstanding receivables, historical collection information and existing economic conditions. At December 31, 2007, there were no uncollectible accounts.

Federal and State Income Taxes

The Company's stockholder has elected under the Internal Revenue Code to be taxed as an S Corporation. In lieu of corporate income taxes, the stockholder is taxed on his or hers proportionate share of the Company's net income. Accordingly, no provision or liability for income taxes has been made in the accompanying financial statements.

Use of Estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements, and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.
